ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A high-Cr containing ferrite heat resistant steel having not only an excellent long-term creep strength at a high temperature exceeding 650 °C, but also an improved oxidation resistance, which is based on ferritic phase and contains 13 % by weight or more of chromium, and containing precipitates of intermetallic compounds.